

Foreword

Dear parents, dear children,

As patron of the INFamilie network I am delighted to present you with this picture language book "A Day with Chatterbox".

I have been involved with the network for many years and am always amazed at the vast range of objectives which become achievable when efforts are combined.

Language development support, children's nurseries, parents and tots groups and municipal gardens for local residents all provide diverse and competent assistance to meet the needs of our families in Dortmund.

And this beautifully illustrated language picture book adds further proof to that.

I wish you many hours of fun.

About this book

Dear readers,

In this book you will find things that you and your family experience on a daily basis. We have produced the book to help you to show and explain various day-to-day situations to your children. When you look at the pictures with your child and then later when you experience the same situations together, you can point things out again and again, ever going into more detail and exchanging thoughts and ideas in a variety of ways.

The use of extensive texts has been specifically avoided to leave all the more to your own imagination, allowing you to forever invent new stories and explain the illustrations.

The "search and find" picture on the inside cover page invites you to discover and converse. Here you will recognize many of your own everyday situations and surroundings. Take your time, be inquisitive and discover the world together with your child!

As a team within the framework of the "INFamilie" project we have devoted considerable time to putting this book and its contents together.

We have drawn on the experiences of our own diverse backgrounds and hope very much that you and your child will find this a very enjoyable and enriching book.

We hope you have lots of fun with "A Day with Chatterbox"
